SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1745.

Extract of a Private Letter from the Hague, dated February 5, 1745.

'WE are clearly of Opinion here, 'that the Death of the Emperor will give an irretrievable Blow to the French Affairs in Germany; to which 'we are led by various Considerations. In the first Place, 'it is not probable that the 'young Elector of Bavaria will 'purſue the Schemes of his [illegible], to which, in his Life-time, it was known he [illegible]verſe; and as there is great Reaſon to believe he [illegible] a great Deference to his Mother, the Empreſs [illegible]ger, ſo there is no Cauſe to doubt, that, by her [illegible]oſition, he may make a good Peace with the [illegible] of Hungary; the rather, becauſe his Uncle, the [illegible]r of Cologne, has a great Intereſt with the Court [illegible]nna, ariſing from the honeſt Part he has acted [illegible]bout this whole Diſpute. He always look'd [illegible]the late Emperor's Guaranty of the Pragmatick [illegible]ion as enviolable, and never conſider'd the Inter[illegible]n of France, in the Affairs of his Houſe, but as [illegible]rous to it, as well as deſtructive to the Empire; [illegible]e will, probably, infuſe the ſame Notions into [illegible]phew. There are, indeed, ſome Letters from [illegible]fort, which ſay, that the young Elector has [illegible] the Title of Arch-Duke of Auſtria; but none [illegible]r Advices from Munich mention any ſuch [illegible]

[illegible] the World is at preſent prejudiced in Favour of [illegible]oung Prince, who is allowed to have very great [illegible] and whoſe Behaviour has hitherto been much [illegible]prudent than could be expected from his Years; [illegible] without giving any Umbrage to the Emperor, [illegible]ther, he always preſerv'd great Meaſures to[illegible] the Queen of Hungary and the Grand Duke. [illegible]certain he has it, at this Juncture, in his Power [illegible]abliſh his Family effectually; and to make his [illegible]ſts ſome Amends, for the Misfortunes under [illegible]s they laboured during the Reign of his Father. [illegible] there is nothing wanting to ſecure the Indepen[illegible] of Germany, which would effectually eſtabliſh [illegible]nce of Power in Europe, but the detaching his [illegible]ral Highneſs from the Intereſt of France; ſo it [illegible]t be ſuppoſed that any thing will be wanting in [illegible]ueen of Hungary, or her Allies, to make him [illegible]e of their being better Friends to him than the [illegible]h King ever was. His declaring on the right [illegible]at preſent, muſt either put an End to the War [illegible]diately, or leave France expoſed to the Danger [illegible]ing herſelf attack'd again, as ſhe was laſt Year, on [illegible]hine, as well as in Flanders, without any Hopes [illegible]ocuring ſuch another Diverſion as was afforded [illegible] the Conduct of the King of Pruſſia.

[illegible]e Sentiments of our Politicians are very much [illegible]d, as to the Meaſures that Prince will, in this [illegible]al Conjuncture, incline to take. Some, indeed, [illegible]d to ſay, that he will ſtill adhere to France, and [illegible]vour to traverſe the Election of an Emperor; [illegible]thers are of quite a contrary Opinion, believing, [illegible]he will now look on the Franckfort Treaty as [illegible]tely diſſolv'd; and, for that Reaſon, endeavour [illegible]ake the beſt Terms he can for himſelf; and give [illegible] Security for the Performance of them, as ſhall [illegible]d ſatisfactory. It is even whiſper'd, that ſome [illegible]ditions of this Sort have been, on his Part, already [illegible]; and, without doubt, if Matters can be ad[illegible] between the Courts of Vienna and Berlin, be[illegible]the opening of the next Campaign, the Houſe of [illegible]on will be compelled to make ſuch a Peace as [illegible]ſiſtent with the Intereſt of the Maritime Powers, [illegible]he Freedom of Europe.'

EXTRACT from the PREFACE.

The Beauty and Elevation of his Stile is equal to the Greatness and Glory of the People whose Story he writes: He is every where luminous, intelligible, and agreeable; but when he enters into important Affairs, he rises even above himself, to treat them with peculiar Attention, and a Kind of Self-delight and Complacency. He renders the Action he describes present; he sets it before the Eyes; he does not relate it, he shews it. He paints the Genius and Character of Personages he brings upon the Stage after Nature; and puts into their Mouths Words which are always conformable to their Sentiments and different Situations. In short, he has the wonderful Art of keeping his Readers in so pleasing a Suspence by the Variety of Events, and to engage their Curiosity so strangely, that they cannot quit his Relation of an Incident till it is entirely at an End.
